

The energy industry is complex and evolving as companies cope with severe cost pressures, historically low oil prices, and operational challenges due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Through downturns and recoveries, we have helped clients in virtually every sector of the energy industry, including upstream, midstream, downstream, oilfield services, power, and utilities. We work with clients to explore and implement ways to innovate and differentiate, mitigate risks, comply with government regulations, meet customer needs, and operate more efficiently.

Our consultants thoroughly understand the energy business and provide value on Day 1. Put simply, SolomonEdwards helps companies across the entire energy value chain with projects of any size or complexity.

CASE STUDY SNAPSHOTS

Acquisition Review

An independent exploration and production company purchased several hundred million dollars of oil and gas properties from another independent exploration and production company. SolomonEdwards performed a review of the purchase and sales agreement on behalf of the buyer, plus reviewed the seller's settlement statement and transactions from effective date through the transition period, uncovering significant cut-off issues. Favorable adjustments to our client of approximately 10% of the purchase price were identified, 500% more than anticipated by the buyer.

Carve-Outs, Policies and Procedures, Systems Implementation

SolomonEdwards performed a number of legal entities carve-outs through modeling and served as an outsourced compliance team during a period of rapid growth, resulting in savings and recoveries of $1.4 million. Our team also created risk and controls framework and process documentation for accounting, along with assisting an Oracle R12 implementation.

Fresh Start Accounting, Bankruptcy Project Management

SolomonEdwards provided project management for 8 concurrent bankruptcy emergence projects and interim staff for stabilization due to high turn-over during bankruptcy. Over a two-year period, we provided a total of 70 project consultants. Our accounting experts developed a detailed, entity-level consolidation model for preparing and reconciling their restructuring and fresh start accounting entries to top-level expected results. SolomonEdwards coordinated with all country finance managers to obtain fair value information and to approve the push down entries to local books within a six-week period following emergence. Post-emergence, we provided tactical assistance in numerous process improvement and SAP/HFM systems implementation projects.
